

SILVER AND GOLD
DEBATE KEEPS UPSECOND DAY'S SESSION OF THE CONTROVERSY.

The Act of 1873. Demonetizing Silver, the Principal Subject of Discussion—The Attendance and Interest Increases as the Debate Goes on—Points Thus Far Discussed.

Chicago, July 18.—Silver and gold again measured swords at the Illinois Club yesterday, and the contest for supremacy in the discussion was a heated one. The number of people present was increased over Tuesday's attendance. The debate was spirited and interesting, and the cross-fire of the two principals was a strong feature, that brought out many points that were hidden beneath the surface.

In the course of his remarks yesterday Mr. Horr attacked Mr. Harvey's position on the law of 1873, and also indirectly accused him of misrepresentation in regard to the legal tender laws and quotations made in Coin's book. Mr. Harvey refuted the charges, and said that a man is not guilty of misrepresentation every time he is charged. In his defense of the law previous to 1873 and his attack of the demonetization act of that year, in reply to Mr. Horr's charges that there were no good grounds for the statement that England conceived and concocted the scheme, Mr. Harvey said that reasoning by induction will invariably locate a criminal better than uncertain evidence and that he assumed that the people mostly benefited by the passage of the act of 1873, especially after a conference of the nature of the one held in Paris in 1867, would be the ones to whom the scheme could be safely traced, and that this people were the money-lenders of England.

Among the prominent people present were Gen. A. J. Warner, who accepted a seat on the platform. Mr. Warner is president of the Bimetallic League. Judge A. W. Rucker, a well-known jurist of Colorado; Anton Wolcott, of Nashville, Tenn., and Senator Pettigrew, of South Dakota, were also present.

MR. HERR OPENS THE DEBATE.

Summary of the Principal Points Made by the Disputants.

(Copyright, 1895, by Axel F. Hatch.) Mr. Horr commenced his argument by the claim in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, before the discovery of the immense silver mines of America, the lot of the laboring population of Europe was never better. Mr. Harvey had disputed this in his book, and Mr. Horr said: "Mr. Harvey and his free-silver friends identify prosperity and the progress of man with the lot of the feudal nobility of Europe and not with that of the toilers. Later I shall show that in his treatment of the present, as of the past, Mr. Harvey stands as the exponent of the rich and not of the toilers, whose welfare should first be considered by the legislation of a state."

Mr. Harvey, in his defense, quoted from historians to prove his position, and made this point: "Gold and silver have been honest money for centuries, and under free coinage and equal treatment they have been practically at par with the legal ratio fixed for their coinage. Under these laws both were money in their own right, each having equal purchasing power and both adapted to use as money. Population and the demand on the money market are growing every year, and there was no good reason for debasing one of these metals, discriminating against it and destroying the demand for it that gave to it its value in the markets."

After some discussion as to the real unit of value, Mr. Harvey went on to describe the demonetization act of 1873. He said:

"To understand how silver could be demonetized in this republic the reader should understand that we then had paper money, and no silver or gold was in circulation, except in California. The same situation existed in England, following the French wars in 1816, when silver was dropped from the mints there."

"The conspiracy to demonetize silver was regarded by those engaged in it as a business transaction, just as those who visit Washington and other capitals to accomplish by legislation a sugar trust or a trust on school books, or anything else."

"The conspiracy originated in London. European financiers had discovered that the demonetization of silver by England had no effect on the commercial parity of the metals at the ratio fixed by France. It was therefore current that in order to break the commercial parity and substantially depreciate silver all of the great governments would have to be included in the needed legislation. The subject was discussed among these financiers informally in London and Paris and very few were included among those who understood its ultimate effect. A good deal of diplomacy, concealment and misrepresentation were practiced in securing the co-operation of politicians in Germany, France and the United States. The subject was discussed without disclosing the ultimate aim of those who directed the conference."

"Following his trip to London and Paris Mr. Sherman introduced a bill in 1868 that was on its face intended to establish the gold standard. Senator Morgan, of New York, jumped on it in the finance committee with all fours, and Sherman said that Morgan understood genuine bimetalism and this bill died that day and was never heard of again. Senator Morgan's term of office expired in 1869 and at the very next session another bill made its appearance. Those who took an open and avowed interest in the new measure were Mr. Linderman, director of the mint; Mr. Knox, the comptroller of the treasury, who at the end of his term of office became president of a national bank in New York; John Sherman in the senate and Representatives Hooper, of Massachusetts, and Stoughton, of Michigan, in the house."

"The bill this time went to a committee in which the second attempt to leave out the silver dollar was again uncovered, and it was inserted at the ratio of 15½ to 1, which was the French ratio. This provided for a dollar of 384 grains. This was the equivalent of the French 5-franc piece.

"To knock this dollar out surreptitiously at the last moment then became the plan of the conspirators. The only question they would have to fight would be the change of the unit of value from silver to gold, and on this they could depend by representing that gold was virtually then the standard by common consent of nations; that it had been rendered so by the large production of gold, and by other specific arguments supported by special influences. Thus it became a bill, innocent on its face as to demonetizing silver. Demonetization consists principally in closing the mints to a specified metal, thus cutting off the coinage demand for it and leaving it only a commercial value."

Mr. Horr in his reply pointed out what he called inaccuracies in Mr. Harvey's "Financial School" and in his statements in the debate. He went on: "This is what I want to call your attention to: About $100,000,000 of foreign silver had found its way into the country prior to 1860. It was principally Spanish, Mexican and Canadian coin. It had all been made legal tender in the United States by the act of Congress. We needed more silver than we had and Congress passed laws making all foreign coins legal tender in this country. I will read you one of those laws—they are scattered all through the statutes prior to 1873."

"Here he took up a copy of the laws of the United States relating to loans and the currency coinage and banking published at Washington. He said a copy could be obtained by any one on writing to the treasury department. He then read from page 240 as follows: 'And he further enacted that from and after the passage of this act the following foreign silver coins shall pass current as money within the United States, and to be receivable by tale for the payment of all debts and demands, at the rates following, that is to say: The Spanish pillar dollars and the dollars of Mexico, Peru and Bolivia, etc.'

"The very first law that passed on the subject after the law of 1792 was passed on February 9, 1839, an act regulating foreign coins, making them legal tender and establishing their value. The language makes all foreign coins named in that act legal tender. If they come up to a certain standard—that is, if they have so much fine gold and so much fine silver in them, and if they are worth so much, then, and not otherwise."

Of the reason for the suspension of silver coinage by President Jefferson Mr. Horr quoted from official documents. He said:

"The director of the mint says, page 88: 'No issue of silver dollars was made from the mint from 1805 to 1836, the coinage having been suspended by the direction of President Jefferson, owing to the fact that their bullion value being greater than their face value they were purchased for export.' The order of suspension is contained in a letter under date of May 1, 1806, addressed to the director of the mint at Philadelphia by James Madison, secretary of state."

Mr. Harvey, in his reply, said: "Jefferson ordered the coins made into small coins to better serve the people, and on account of the scarcity of silver—both silver and gold were scarce then—there was abundant silver in the world as compared with gold, 30 to 1, but it was not in the United States. Here in the United States silver was scarce. Jefferson was a patriot and a statesman. He understood these little wants of the people as they are not understood now."

Robbed and Deserted.

Kansas City, July 18.—Miss Sarah Mead, thirty-two years old, a former school teacher of Greenwich, Conn., who met Dr. J. L. Walker, of Des Moines, Iowa, in this city by appointment on June 5 and was married to him on the same day in Kansas City, Kas., has discovered that her husband is false and that she has been the victim of a most cruel desertion. Her husband has left her, and, worse still, he has taken her gold watch and $1,200 in money, leaving her more than 1,500 miles from home with only $10.

Forest Fires Start Again.

Traverse City, Mich., July 18.—Forest fires have broken out again west and southeast of the city, fanned by strong winds, and farmers have been kept busy trying to save their houses and buildings. There has not been enough rain to wet things down in over six weeks and everything is dry as tinder. Seven thousand ties along the track near Leroy are burning and trains are delayed.

Holmes Virtually Confesses.

Philadelphia, July 18.—H. H. Holmes has virtually confessed to the murder of the two children whose bodies were found in the cellar of a Toronto house. It was learned at the office of the district attorney during the two hours' interview Holmes had Tuesday with three members of the district attorney's staff that Holmes said: "I suppose I'll swing for this." This is the only remark dropped from Holmes' lips which in any way tended to incriminate him, and the district attorney concedes this a practical admission of Holmes' guilt.

Fruit Crop Will Be Short.

Washington, July 18.—The fruit crop report for July shows a heavy decline in condition, especially in the New England States, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. The peach crop returns are unfavorable. Michigan has prospect of less than half a crop, while Ohio is 22, lowest of all.

Iowa Town Suffers by Fire.

New Hampton, Ia., July 18.—At midnight last night fire wiped out almost all the business portion of Alta Vista, a town on the Great Western, ten miles north of here. The loss will reach $40,000. The insurance is less than half that.

Judge Dundy Recovering.

Omaha, Neb., July 18.—Judge Elmer S. Dundy suffered a slight stroke of apoplexy last evening, but is now considered out of danger.

STAMBULOFF DEAD;

STILL AT LARGE

Wounds Inflicted by Knives and Pistols Prove Fatal—Liberals Snowed Under in the English Elections—Socialism in Great Britain Gets a Set-Back.

Sofia, July 18.—Ex-Premier Stambuloff died early this morning of the wounds inflicted on him by the four assassins on Tuesday. His assassins are still free.

Setback for Socialism.

London, July 18.—The Times gives prominence to a letter signed by Mr. St. Clair McKelway, editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, in which Mr. McKelway says he regards the elections in Great Britain as a check to socialistic tendency and thereby of value to every division of the English-speaking world.

Liberals Are Snowed Under.

London, July 18.—The result of yesterday's polling leaves the different parties in the following condition: Conservatives, 230; Liberal Unionists, 39; total unionists, 269; Liberals, 65; McCarthyites, 28; Parnellites, 6; Labor 2. Total opposition, 101.

IT CAME LIKE A CLOUD BURST.

Deluge of Rain in Central Illinois—Many Narrow Escapes.

Jacksonville, Ill., July 18.—For about one hour yesterday this locality experienced one of the heaviest downpours of rain ever known. The rain was accompanied by a strong wind and hailstones as large as hickory nuts. In the city but small damage was done, while about six miles west of here, at Markham on the Wabash railroad, the storm was much more furious. That vicinity was visited by a veritable cloud-burst, and the wind blew a perfect gale, demolishing trees, fences and small buildings. The telegraph wires were all prostrated, and linemen were sent from here by special train to repair the damage. But meager reports have been received, but it is not thought any lives were lost, though instances of narrow escapes from injury are numerous. The rain and wind were general throughout the state.

HEAVY WIND IN INDIANA.

Travels Thirty Miles an Hour and Does Much Damage.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 18.—A severe wind and rain storm prevailed throughout the state at an early hour yesterday, the wind blowing at the rate of thirty miles an hour and unroofing houses, tearing off branches of shade trees and proving very destructive to the growing corn. A Big Four train was caught in the storm just northeast of this city, and a tree was blown upon it, breaking out all the windows on one side of a coach and giving the passengers a terrible scare. No one in the car was hurt, though the roof was crushed in by the force of the falling tree.

The storm seems to have been general throughout the central part of the state, and in some localities was attended by sharp electrical displays. In many counties the heavy rain will save the corn crop.

Michigan Fruit Badly Injured.

St. Joseph, Mich., July 18.—The small hurricane which swept over this county early yesterday morning did much damage to grain and fruits, breaking down trees and stripping the trees and vines of their foliage. It is estimated that at least one-third of the apple, pear and peach crops was blown off. Many fences and loosely constructed buildings were wrecked.

Damage Feared in Wisconsin.

Iron Belt, Wis., July 18.—The rains flooded large tracts of lowlands in this territory. It is feared that the potato fields of Iron and adjacent counties will suffer considerably, many large patches being covered with water.

Rain in Iowa Does Some Good.

Burlington, Iowa, July 18.—The effect of the hot winds for the last two days on the corn crop has been disastrous. A heavy rain at noon yesterday and lasting several hours has done much to offset the wind's bad work.

IS A BIG BILL.

Complete Revision of Illinois Revenue Law Intended.

Springfield, Ill., July 18.—Senator Litter yesterday introduced another bill for the assessment of property and the levy and collection of taxes. It contemplates a complete revision of the law. The important changes consist in the abolition of the town board of equalization, the county and state board of equalization.

Immediately after the reading of the journal in the senate Senator Paisley secured consent to offer a resolution in honor of the memory of the late Congressman Frederick Remann, which was unanimously adopted. In a short address on the resolution Mr. Paisley paid a tribute to the sterling qualities of the deceased, who represented his district in congress.

Bills were introduced as follows: By Crawford—A tax ley providing for an addition of $750,000 a year for the next two years. Litter—For the assessment of property and the levy and collection of taxes. Some other bills were introduced, and on motion of Senator Johnson the senate took a recess until 2 o'clock in order to attend in a body the memorial services of the House in honor of Speaker Meyer.

Shannon Wife and Mother-in-Law.

Kansas City, July 18.—In a fit of drunken rage last night George McNamara fatally stabbed his wife and seriously wounded his mother-in-law, Mrs. S. R. Mayfield. The difficulty originated in a family quarrel.

SEVEN KILLED TODAY
IN WINDYVILLECHICAGO'S ACCIDENT RECORD IS A GENEROUS ONE.

Collision Between a Tug and Steamer on the St. Clair Canal Ends in Three Deaths—Freight Train Goes Through a Bridge on the Santa Fe Road.

Chicago, July 18.—Seven violent deaths have been reported up to noon today. Four were by railroads, one by trolley and one man went down an elevator shaft.

Detroit, July 18.—Collision between a tug and a steamer in the St. Clair river ships canal this morning resulted in the death of three men.

Iron Mountain, Mich., July 18.—A disastrous cave-in with a probable loss of life occurred on the first level of the Pewabic iron mine late yesterday afternoon. Nine miners were imprisoned by the cave-in and it is feared some of them were crushed to death. The disaster occurred just after the bell rang for the men to quit work, and fortunately most of the miners had reached the surface. A large rescue crew went to work at once, but their progress through the mass of broken rock and timber, which is forty feet deep, is necessarily slow. It will be fully twelve hours before a passage can be cleared and the imprisoned miners reached.

Shortly after the rescuers began work on the big pile of debris faint knockings were heard on the air pipe which connects with the room in which the men were imprisoned. This spurred the rescuers to greater energy, and the work was pushed all night. Of the men imprisoned two are Scandinavians, two Cornishmen and five are Italians. The names of but three of them have been ascertained. They are John Johnson, Stephen Bowden and Frederick Mebb.

It is not known how many of the imprisoned miners are alive, but the mine officials believe that all nine will be found safe and well. The monetary loss will be heavy.

THROUGH A BRIDGE.

Accident to a Freight Train on the Santa Fe in Colorado.

Monument, Col., July 18.—Santa Fe freight train No. 46, south bound from Denver to Colorado Springs, crashed through a bridge just south of town at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, killing three, fatally injuring three, and seriously injuring fifteen others, as follows: The killed:

CHILDRES, JIM, foreman bridge gang.

COOPER, MRS., wife of stationary engineer.

TRAMP, unknown.

The injured:

Vinchers, Mark, engineer of freight train; scalded; will die.

Irby, D. N., brakeman; bruised about chest; fatally hurt.

Gardner, Charles, waterman; scalded; will die.

Neal, James, hip broken; head cut.

Halley, Charles, back hurt; spine injured.

Shaw, Frank, hip crushed; head cut.

Cooper, Wallace, head cut; back hurt.

Van Meter, Charles.

Smith, Tom, tramp.

Williams, Joe, tramp.

Cole, J. W., bridge contractor; arm broken.

Carpenter, C. C.

Stenhouse, Thomas, foreman bridge gang; both legs broken.

Sargent, Charles.

Allen, Harry, broken leg; head cut.

Rue, Charles, leg broken.

Booker, H. C., head and shoulders bruised.

Shaw, James, head cut.

The freight train followed the two fast passenger trains and came through here at 10:55. There were twenty-four cars on the train loaded with stone, lumber and bridge timber. When fifty feet from the south side of Dry Gulch the timbering gave way and the train shot through the opening into the gulch fifty feet below. There were cries from the train, terror-stricken men shouted, bridge timbers gave way and the men at work under the north end began to reel and fall. The noise of the grinding timbers was heard and all the cars were thrown into a tangled mass at the bottom of the gulch.

Mrs. Albert Cooper, wife of the engineer of the bridge, was sitting on a stool on a ledge of rock, watching the men at work, when the timbers began to crack, and J. C. Childers, who was on the structure, seeing her danger, jumped to save her. The leap was to death, for as he wreckage fell upon them, and both were buried. Childers was the foreman of the bridge gang. As soon as possible a wrecking train came down from Denver. Physicians and surgeons were hurried from Colorado Springs, and all that was possible was done for the injured and dying.

Twenty minutes before the accident occurred the Midland passenger train crossed the structure. There was no sign then of weakness, and the cause of the accident is inexplicable. It is one of those that seldom occur and cannot be explained.

It is thought by some that there are bodies still under the wreckage that have not been accounted for, and this, of course, would increase the death list. Whether this be so or not, it is not known at present. The wreckage is piled up thirty feet high and it will be two days at least before the bridge and track can be repaired and traffic resumed over the structure.

FIRE AT CINCINNATI.

Two Firemen Killed and Many Badly Injured.

Cincinnati, O., July 18.—A fire at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the main part of the shipping quarter of the city resulted in the instant death of two firemen and the probable fatal wounding of a half dozen others. The fatalities were caused by the falling walls of the Durbin building.

The dead:

HEALEY, —, captain.

WISBY, JACK, pipeman.

The injured:

Bradford, George J., pipeman.

Newman, Ed., pipeman.

Neil, —, captain.

Teppen, Benjamin, fireman.

Pureell, Peter, captain.

Fanning, Bart, driver.

Dolan, William, fireman.

Thompson, William, fireman.

McNally, Mike, fireman.

Hammond, Walter, fireman.

Hanks, James, fireman.

Mullen, John, fireman.

Westcott, Lem, fireman.

Cunningham, Fred, fireman.

Beebe, William, fireman.

Ennis, Victor, fireman.

Anthony, Edward, fireman.

It is impossible to tell how many of the wounded firemen will die. They are at the hospital, but the doctors cannot tell how seriously they are wounded. They are all unconscious. The block which was destroyed lies at Front and Water streets. From the time the alarm sounded until late at night scenes harrowing and pathetic transpired in rapid succession, filling the hearts of thousands of spectators with horror. The origin of the fire is not positively known. It burst forth from the second story window of Hermes & Co. at the northwest corner of Water and Walnut streets. It is supposed to have started from a lighted cigar thrown carelessly on the floor. The floor was covered with loose hay. Five minutes after the alarm the magnificent five-story building was in ruins. Then the flames leaped to the adjoining buildings, rapidly devouring the stores and warehouses of the Smith Coal and Sand Company, Nelson Morris' stable, Klein & Quirk and Seaman & Co.

The fire had been gotten under control when the fatal falling of Klein & Quirk's walls took place, burying the firemen. They were actively at work with the hose when without warning the crash came. Ten thousand people were witnesses. The walls fell with a deafening noise. Many women fainted and for a time the onlookers lost their heads. But they recovered shortly and the brave work of rescue commenced. The financial loss will be in the neighborhood of $200,000.

EXPLOSION ON THE ERICSSON.

Five Men Injured by Escaping Steam—Names of the Injured.

New London, Conn., July 18.—Shortly after noon yesterday the lighthouse steamer Cactus came steaming up the harbor at the top of her speed, and the cause of it was made known as soon as the vessel reached the pier. She had on board five men from the engineer's department of the torpedo boat Ericsson, who had been terribly scalded by the bursting of the exhaust steam pipe while the vessel was trying her speed off Bartlett's reef in the morning. The injured:

Williams, Austin, junior engineer.

Hamilton, Joseph, junior engineer.

New York.

Cody, David, junior engineer, Jersey City.

Merwin, William, machinist, Dubuque, Iowa.

Strickler, Jack, engineer, Dubuque, Iowa.

The men were at work at their stations when the accident happened and they had no chance in their confined quarters, but had to take the full effects of the steam. The sufferers were taken on board the Cactus, and their bodies were painted with white lead to exclude the air from their exposed flesh, from which the cuticle had been removed in great patches on body, back, and limbs. Their sufferings were excruciating.

Thrashing Machine Explodes.

Tulare, Cal., July 18.—At the ranch of Walter Carlton, seven miles southwest of Tulare, the boiler of a thrashing outfit exploded. Of the twenty-one men who were standing near the engine at the time two were killed and six severely injured. The water wagon standing near the engine was blown to atoms. Four horses were blown some distance by the explosion, but were uninjured. The injured were severely scalded, and several of them will probably die.

Important Decision.

Washington, July 18.—A decision of importance for its effect upon the transit trade of the United States and Canada is embodied in a letter dispatched yesterday by Assistant Secretary Hamlin of the Treasury Department. Previous rulings of the department are reaffirmed in favor of railway cars and locomotives from either country traversing the United States free of duty.

May Lose Their Lands.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 18.—A shortage has been discovered in the books of ex-Receiver Meades and ex-Register Royce of the United States Land Office at Marquette. Homesteaders in nearly every county of the Upper Peninsula are affected and many will lose their land on account of no entries of their applications or proof of claims having been placed on record.

Desperadoes and Citizens Fight.

Tiffin, O., July 18.—A posse of seventy-five residents of Bettsville captured two desperadoes yesterday. The men were caught robbing a store, by the village marshal, and opened fire on the official and discharged about eighty shots at him before making an escape. After they were captured, about four miles from town, the men gave their names as William Raymond and William Johnson.

The Seymour Poisoning Case.

Seymour, Ind., July 18.—The trial of Jessie Derringer as an accomplice of Dollie Belknap in the poisoning of Fleming Sarver and wife, owing to the absence of a number of witnesses, has been continued a day. A warrant has also been issued for the arrest of Dollie Derringer, a younger sister, on the same charge.

attle With Occupants of the Green River Reservation Very Probable—Tramps at Pender—Capt. Beck Arrested—Ranchers Arm Men For Continued Fighting.

Evanston, Wyo., July 18.—War between settlers and the Indians of the Green river reservation is very certain.

Pender, Neb., July 18.—Sheriff Mullers of Thurston County went to the Winnebago agency yesterday to serve an injunction upon Capt. William Beck, the Indian agent, restraining him from further evictions of Flournoy company tenants. Beck will decline to yield to the authority of the state courts. It is reported here that the sheriff of Dakota County will join Sheriff Mullers, raise a posse, go to the agency and arrest Beck and his police force and bring them here for trial. There are all sorts of rumors afloat and it is difficult to substantiate any of them.

Omaha, Neb., July 18.—Committees representing settlers evicted on the reservation are in Omaha purchasing 250 rifles, with 100 loaded shells for each. They will be taken to Pender and Capt. Beck and his armed Indians will be surrounded and captured even if blood flows.

LINCOLN MEN MADE A BARREL OF CASH

ILLINOIS HORSE, PEARL C.
SHOCKED THE TALENT.

The 245 Class Pacer That Could go in 2:11 1/2 Had Been Kept Under Cover Until the Time Came to "Make a Killing"—Sucker State Folks Went Home Wealthy.

Twenty-five miles from Springfield, Ill., is the hustling little town of Lincoln, and 7,925 people live there. A part of that number accompanied by a bay four-year-old mare named Pearl C., came to Janesville yesterday. They came up in the ordinary fashion, but they went home in Pullman palace cars. They had dollars enough stowed away in their clothes to give one to each man, woman and child in Lincoln, and reserve a few of the heavy 16 to 1 variety to throw at the dogs that barked at their train. Pearl C. simply coked her ears forward and seemed to enjoy the fun, while the backers of Dan McCabe, driven by "Joe Patchen Curry," and Tom Lee, handled by "Online Chandler," gnashed their teeth and watched their hard earned money "burn up." It was a great shock to the horsemen but as one of them remarked, "Fuller is always doing something like that." In the first heat she reeled off a mile in 2:11 1/2, notwithstanding that the race was the 2:45 pacing class.

Made a $1,500 On a Heat.

"Gee Whittaker" said a man who came all the way from Kentucky to put a big wad of bills on Dan McCabe "that leaves me with just $1.75 in my pocket and I am not acquainted with a single conductor running out of the town!"

In the next heat Pearl C. made a mistake and Dan McCabe won the heat but it was a temporary victory for Pearl C. got the next two with very little effort. On the first heat the Lincoln people cleaned up $1,500 and nobody knows how much they made on the race, but it was a big sum as the mare had not been driven out before but had been kept under cover for just such an occasion as this. She is a bay mare by Roy Wilkes, four years old, and handled by George A. Fuller. James Coddington is her owner and he offered to wager $1000 yesterday, that she could turn the Janesville track in better time than 2:06. This was her second start in a race, her first appearance being at Peoria where she had the money won but for an unfortunate break near the wire that kept her from getting a mark of 2:14 and first money. When she won the first heat yesterday, Mr. Coddington her owner forgot his eighty years of age, but waving his hat over his head yelled like an Indian so did more others of the Lincoln delegation, but others didn't say a word in public, they just said "Pearl C." with remarkable rapidity as they handed the book-makers large brown backed bills marked "v," "x," and "xx." It was a great race—for the people from Lincoln.

HAND-ENGINE FIREMAN IN TOWN

C. H. Lanyon Kan with the Water-Witch Twenty-Five Years Ago.

C. H. Lanyon, who, twenty-five years ago, was a torch boy in the old Water Witch fire company, and who has been roaming over the continent for the past twenty years, called on the boys at the engine house today.

"Things don't look as they did when I carried a torch for this company twenty-five years ago," said he as a self-introduction on entering the station. The boys greeted the stranger cordially, and gave him every opportunity to survey the house and apparatus.

"We had the old hand engine in my day and had some lively times with the other boys," he remarked, "but things have changed wonderfully, and I see you fellows have got down to regular business without the fun. The old town has changed considerably, too, and is much larger than I expected to see it on my return."

Mr. Lanyon then went on to tell the boys of the Hyatt house fire, the great fire on North Main street, and a number of others at which the boys had considerable fun with the old machine.

TWO STREETS IN BAD CONDITION

But It Isn't the Fault of Street Commissioners Watson.

Pleasant street and Madison avenue are in bad condition, the cause being the general tearing up of the streets for water pipe and sewers. When the trenches are filled, it is a surplus dirt, of which there is plenty, is piled on in the hopes that rains and good luck will settle it. A physician who has driven over Janesville streets for fifteen years, suggests that when streets are torn up for the benefit of private enterprise, the people interested should be made to pay a man appointed by the city enough to put the roadway in good repair again.

BECKER SAYS BUSINESS IS POOR.

People Have Not The Money To Play The Wheel.

W. H. Becker, proprietor of the "wheel," says Janesville crowds have changed. When the Bower City sports used to come up to the rail ten dollars' worth at a throw, they now stick to a quarter limit. A dollar looks bigger than a three-ring circus tent these hard times. In consequence, winnings and losses have been smaller this week. One La Prairie man, with trousers in his hat tops, took $150 out of Becker's pile in three-quarters of an hour, and went away just as the wheel men decided to bar him, but no other big transactions are known. Becker carries seven men this year and goes direct from here to the Detroit meet, not taking in the Freeport races, for small towns this year, unless they are very sporty, will be skipped.

ON SEVEN SKELTONS A GORY TALE HANGS

ANTE-WARTIME INDIAN MASSACRE RECALLED.

Whole Family of Miltmores Were Slain by Indians and the Finding of the Bones Leads a Doctor With a Historical Hankering to Write Here for Facts.

A message from the blood-soaked ante war time days in the far west, came to Chauncey K. Miltmore yesterday and told a story that a dime novelist could work up into a thrilling tale. The message was written on a postal card and was in the form of a request for information.

Many years ago a family of Miltmores went from the East to Kansas and took up government land. At that time the Sioux ruled that part of the country, but the Miltmores got along with them, for a time, without a jar. One day, however, Mr. Miltmore did something to enrage them. Then there came a change, and in the dead of night, the painted savages descended upon the home. There were eight members of the family and but one survived to tell the tale. This was a small boy and how he escaped he never could tell. He witnessed the butchery of the family and how the savage cut off his sister's legs and ears. He could not tell the exact spot where the massacre occurred in after years and no one knew the location of the Miltmore home.

Boy Came to Janesville.

After making his escape, the story ran, young Miltmore started for Janesville driving the only cow that the savage left. The milk of the animal kept him alive, and he was said to have reached the Bower City in safety. The butchery faded from the public memory and soon it was entirely forgotten. The postal card that came to Mr. Miltmore was from Postmaster L. F. Long of Brighton, Col., who said he had received word from W. S. Newton M. D., of Oswego, Kan., that seven skeletons had been found a few weeks before near that town. Old timers believed them to be those of the Miltmore family, as the legs had been severed from one of the smaller skeletons, and the other bones and the location, etc., corresponded with the story and description given him by the old resident at Oswego. Dr. Newton, being of an enquiring mind, was trying to unravel the mystery, and to that end wrote to various postmasters, and finally located Mr. Miltmore. Unfortunately, the sequence of the tale is marred by the fact that Mr. Miltmore recollects nothing of the alleged butchery, and has never heard any of his relatives mention it.

Offices in the Park Hotel—Consultation Free.

Dr. Ego's hours for examination are from 9 a. m. to 12 m. and 1 to 5, and 7 to 9 p. m. All who may be afflicted should come and see this great European specialist and healer—another astonishing case. Mr. Morris stack, aged 60, corner of North and Palm streets, this city; has been suffering from rheumatism twenty-five years. His right leg was contracted so that he was scarcely able to walk, there being a shortness of over an inch from the contracted cords. He was also suffering terrible agony in his right shoulder and arm so that he was not able to raise it. He called on Dr. Ego and was given one treatment and after receiving this one treatment he could raise his arm above his head and could move it generally without any pain whatever.

This wonderful man keeps up his record and is daily curing the sick and afflicted, at the Park house. Hundreds are flocking daily to consult him, and scores are being cured daily. Never before in the history of Janesville has such a wonderful man visited this city. He certainly performs miracles. Dr. Ego begins where others leave off and no wonder he cures the so-called incurables so easily, for he has brought an entirely new system of medicine from Europe. The doctor is a graduate of one of the best medical colleges in America, as well as the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of London, England, where he has attained a vast amount of hospital experience, and he is today, without a doubt, the only man in America who can cure rheumatism as well as other afflictions. The doctor comes to us highly recommended by the press and the people generally. He is accomplished and highly educated, a good linguist, speaking a number of languages. Those of you who are suffering from a chronic or acquired disease should not fail to consult this healer, as a friendly chat costs you nothing. Dr. Ego should not be classed with these so-called cure-alls. He attends strictly to his specialty, and any case he undertakes he will cure. Consult him regarding your case, no matter how many physicians you have been doctoring with, or how many patent medicines you have taken. Call and see this wonderful man before it is too late. Consultation and examination free. Offices in the Park House (ground floor.) Hours 9 a. m. to 12 m.; 1 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m. Lady in attendance.

The Difference in Hustlers.

There are two kinds of sleepless hustlers: One you find in the man who hustles all day and at night is troubled with insomnia or from overloading his digestive organs before retiring. The other is the man who never fails to grasp every business bargain pushing itself above the surface, always awake to the fact that untiring efforts mean ultimate success. To give the people more for their money than others and hold their confidence, we have in our tireless, sleepless buyer one of the latter types of hustlers. Come to Lowell's and see for yourselves bargains unheard of in clothing, shoes, tinware, hardware, and every line almost. Lowell Hardware Co.

Are You In The Baby Game?

Baack's baby name guessing contest opens today and is free to all. Remember the first correct guess sent in gets the finest summer suit in this house. The opportunity to try your skill as an accurate guesser should not escape you. President Cleveland's baby must be named, and probably in the near future. No reason why you shouldn't hit upon the right one and get an elegant suit of clothing free. Write your name and address plainly on your guesses. Frank H. Baack.

The Time To Think of Furnaces.

We have the sole agency for the Economy, Gilt Edge and Boynton furnaces, hundreds of them in successful operation in the city, and all time-tried and tested. This is the season of the year to put in new furnaces and repair old ones. Don't wait until winter's cold blasts remind you forcibly. Lowell Hardware Co.

Some people like olives; some people don't; but if you do or do not, it makes no difference. You can cultivate the taste by getting one of those bottles of fancy baby olives, just the thing for lunch or the table. Only 10 cents a bottle. Dunn Bros.

DOE GOES TO NEENAH TO SEE THE RIVER

LOW WATER HAS CRIPPLED FOUR CITIES.

Assistant Secretary of War on His Way From Washington to Investigate Fox River Conditions and See if Relief Can be Given—5,000 Employees Idle.

Assistant Secretary of War J. B. Doe, is on his way to Wisconsin to make a thorough personal investigation into the Fox river water power question with the view to determining what action is best for the interests of all parties concerned. The mill men have hopes that he will suspend in part the order that no water power must be used until the water reaches the top of the Menasha dam. Evaporation from Lake Winnebago is so great in hot weather that very little water flows out, and the Fox can hardly rise to the point fixed before October. This means a three months' suspension of business by every mill, street railway and electric light plant in Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna and Appleton.

J. L. Bostwick's Front Door Alarms Neighbors—Police Are Summoned.

Since the races began people are on the lookout for thieves. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bostwick are camping at Beaver Lake and one of their neighbors passing the house noticed that the front door was opened. Police were at once telephoned for and Chief Acheson and R. M. Bostwick were soon upon the scene. After a thorough investigation they came to the conclusion that the spring lock had failed, and the gentle wind had swung the door open. Those interested in the case gave a sigh of relief.

A TRUTH SEEKER.

He was a seeker after truth, and as he shivered up the snowy stairway in which the wind was blowing blindly there was a look of worried anxiety in his face. He knocked at the door of the slate writing medium, and after waiting for a moment in an anteroom was ushered into the "presence."

"I desire," said the seeker after truth, "to speak with Philip Augustus of France, or Frederick Barbarossa of Germany, or Richard of the Lion Heart. They are now in the spirit world and have been for 700 years, more or less. I can't just recall their numbers."

The medium went through the usual form required by the spirits in such cases and said:

"I find that the gentlemen you want are all talking now, but there is a young man at Richard's instrument who says he would like to communicate with you."

"All right," said the seeker after truth, "maybe he will do. There is a little matter I want explained, and he can do it as well as anybody. What I want to know is how on earth the people got along in the days of sheet iron armor when the snow and the cold winds came."

Then there was a scratching on the slate, and the medium handed it over to the truth seeker. It read:

"Good! That's just what I want to tell you. My name is Ichabod Potts. I lived on earth in the twelfth century and was with Richard the Lion Hearted and Frederick Barbarossa and Philip Augustus in the crusade that lasted from 1189 to 1192, and I'm the man you want to see. There's a lot about that crusade that history has botched up. In the first place, we called Richard Our Dick, and Frederick, Reddy, and Philip—oh, we called him several uncomplimentary things. Do you want the story? Let me know at once how many words."

"Let her go," said the truth seeker as he looked over the slate and arranged with the medium for the use of the line all day.

"Well," began the slate, "as I said, I am Ichabod Potts, yeoman. I left London in 1188, or so, a matter, to go to Jerusalem with Our Dick. The boys always called him that just before a war. Several thousand of us pulled out and marched across country in the fall and got down into southern France for the winter, and by good luck got through that winter without misfortune. Then we fiddled around France and Italy and Germany, drumming up a crowd, when the fall of 1189 found us over in Austria, with a lot of Dagoes. Dick got gay one day and ordered a lot of the Eytalian armor—a job lot, with automatic clasps and a lot of duplex levers and swivels that he was mighty proud of. He kept us drilling in those old base burners all fall, and Reddy—him they call Frederick Barbarossa in the book—looked on mighty jealous, for his men only had one dog chain armor that didn't clank nor glitter, nor nothing. Its only advantage was it was comfortable. Well, to make a long story of magazine length, the winter of 1189 came on—you remember of course the cold winter—but of course you don't. Well, it was fearfully cold—rained all December and took the stove polish off their armors and rusted 'em up some. And then on the 8th of January there was the worst blizzard on the 25 years' record of the University of Vienna. The hinges of them automatics were wet and rusty, and, by Johnnie, when we got up the morning of the 9th, we had to thaw 'em out to get 'em on. It kept getting colder and colder, and at 10 o'clock Thursday morning it began to snow. Say, but it did blow and snow! Dick, he had some tin ear muffs and didn't care a cent for the cold, so he ordered the boys out for dress parade."

"It was awful. The snow drifted into the crevices of their breastplates and leg guards and iron shoes till every man was a walking snow blockade. But Dick wanted to make the Dutch dog chain armor look sick, wanted to show Reddy that his job lot of armor was good for all kinds of weather, sort of general purpose armor, and he put us through the Knights Templars' drill, and the fire drill, and the K. of P., and the Sicilian circle, and the 'cheat or swing,' and the 'ring around the rosy,' and all the rest of it. But I saw old Reddy, who was looking on, wink the other eye, and one of his head men rode off to our camp. I say I noticed this at the time, but I didn't think of it until after."

"Well, the time frost was a gathering on their breastplates and arm covers and sheet iron helmets and hauberk of our'n an inch deep, and the thermometer was getting down deeper and deeper in the tube. When we broke ranks and went back, you could see the steam come up from under them iron breastplates and through the bars in our visors like the steam comes out of the manhole of a sewer on a cold morning. It was awful. The snow had drifted through the slashes in our boots, and we had to empty 'em out before the track was open."

The slate was read and erased, and the pencil began again:

"I was pulling through an extra deep cut going back to camp when I spies a lady who had on one of the new high hats they were wearing that winter. Old Dick, he was going on ahead of me, and I saw him bracing up to make a killing. He felt hurriedly all over his armor to see that it wasn't wrinkled nor unbuckled any place—he was such a skeezicks among the women that way—and as she went by he flipped his hand up to his iron helmet that was covered with an inch of frost, and as he started to salute her the hand didn't come. Froze fast! And the lady, she hums as she passes, 'Where Did You Get That Hat?' I thought the Lion Heart would just burst his breastplate, he was that mad. But he pretended that was the way he always done, says 'the best people was all doing that way'—holding their fingers to their helmets after saluting a lady. I didn't say nothing. It wasn't my cue to come in. So I just helped the old man up the palace steps and pulled out to tell the boys."

A new slate was brought, and the narrative went on.

"Well, sir, when I got there, what do you s'pose I found? Weather cold, mind you, way down to 20 degrees below and still a-dropping. I found that whole blamed army of English crusaders in their job lot base burner armor leaning up against one another, not able to budge. There they was, a-whooping and hollering for some one to come and take the base burners off 'n 'em, but not moving an inch. They couldn't. They had perspired on the road and melted some of the snow, and that, with the rust of the night before, had froze tight as a rock. They couldn't move, or they'd fall over."

"There they stood stacked up like a fire sale of old iron, and the snow drifting in and packing down harder in the cracks of the armor plate every minute. I was still in working order, so I sets out to find the blacksmith. When I found him, he was silly drunk, a-dropping the last monkey wrench on the whole European continent into a hole in the ice on the river, which he'd out to see if the fish wouldn't bite. The goose grease, which we used to limber up the hinges of the army when they creaked, had gone ahead of the monkey wrench. And there we was. Ten thousand men or so froze in the armor, and nothing to turn a nut or bolt nor to loosen a hinge, and the blacksmith so drunk he couldn't tell straight from horizontal."

At this the corner of the slate creaked to simulate a chuckle that Mr. Potts desired to make vocal. Then the story went on:

"Well, I done all I could. I pulls out and tells old Dick, and also tells him that I thought old Reddy, the Dutch king, had did it by getting his head man to get the blacksmith full. We couldn't do nothing. Dick and I went out, and the minute we'd get a man away from the stack to thaw his hinges out he'd fall over. He couldn't walk, and when we got three or four off of the south side the wind blew the whole pile over. And there they was. A whole ship load of iron gone to waste, as you may say, on account of armor plate frauds. It was a shame. I told Dick so, but he didn't say nothing. He knowed where he could get plenty more men, and he found a ready sale for the iron in the spring."

"But what worried him worst was to think how that redheaded Dutch king would give him the laugh at the wassail bout that night. From that on he had it in for Frederick, and so the crusade that had started out so fine and gay busted wide open in the summer of 1192 on account of the lack of confidence of the leaders. But it was all that trick of Reddy's in getting Dick's blacksmith full in the cold winter of 1189 that started the row. Dick always after that seemed to side with Philip, who was just no account on earth. Me? Why, the grate of my base burner burned out in the summer of 1191 under the scorching sun of Palestine, and I died. That job lot of iron was no good for winter or summer."

And here the pencil fell on the slate with a short, sharp click and would write no further.—Kansas City Star.

The Dead of the Sea.

An inquisitive Frenchman has thought it worth while to ask what becomes of the bodies, after death, of the numberless fish and other living creatures that fill the sea. Of course they all die, sooner or later, and yet it is an occurrence so rare as to be practically unknown for anybody who lives beside or on the ocean to come across the "remains" of even a single victim of the fate that awaits all things mortal. In the profounder depths putrefaction cannot take place, so if a dead fish once reached those calm, chill abysses he would be preserved until the end of time. Probably, however, no such peaceful repose awaits more than an infinitesimally small proportion of the finny folk, and no great accumulation of lifeless bodies exists at the bottom of the sea. The living eat the dead before they can make the long, slow journey downward. As a matter of fact, extremely few fish, and perhaps none, ever meet what is known as a "natural death." Almost always they are slain and devoured, and so put definitely out of the way.

Railway Natural History in India.

A correspondent of The Times, India, who vouches for the truth of the story, tells how a lazi traveling between Kurachee and Multan with two tame squirrels was stopped at a station and told she must take a dog ticket for each squirrel, as squirrels were "dogs," and was further compelled to put them in the dog box. Railway natural history in India would seem from the above to differ from that taught on English railway lines, where, according to the famous classification, "cats is dogs, and rabbits is dogs, and parrots likewise, but this yer tortoise is a insect", and there ain't no charge."

Voyagers For Pleasure

Or business, persons on the point of taking an "outing" on land or sea, yachtsmen and tourists need and should be provided with some preventive of sea sickness and corrective of the occasional ill effects of accustomed air, food and water. Many nervous persons experience qualms akin to sea sickness when traveling by rail. They, too, require a medicinal safeguard. The best in existence is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which promptly relieves nausea, sick headache, biliousness, cramps and colic, &c. If business calls you to some locality where chills and fever or bilious remittent is prevalent, don't fail to provide yourself with it. For constipation, rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys it is an excellent remedy. Eminent physicians commend it highly. Lay in a supply before you start by boat, steamer or train. It is a most serviceable traveling companion.

The Only Remedy in the World that Refunds Purchase Price if it Fails to Cure the Tobacco Habit in 4 to 10 Days is

Narcoti-Cure

It Cures while You Continue the Use of Tobacco.

The greatest discovery of the age!
A certain, pleasant, permanent cure.
A lifetime's suffering ended for $5.

Why smoke and spit your life away? Why suffer from dyspepsia, heartburn and drains on your vital forces?

Stop using tobacco, but stop the right way. Drive the nicotine from your system by use of this wonderful remedy.

Narcoti-Cure is warranted to remove all desire for tobacco in every form, including Cigar, Cigarette and Pipe smoking, Chewing and Snuff Taking.

Use all the tobacco you want while under treatment, and in from four to ten days your "hankering" and "craving" will disappear—the weed won't taste good. Then throw away tobacco forever.

Narcoti-Cure is entirely vegetable and free from injurious ingredients. It never fails to give tone and new vigor to the weakest constitution.

Remember Narcoti-Cure doesn't deprive you of tobacco while effecting a cure; doesn't ask you to buy several bottles to be entitled to a guarantee; doesn't require a month's treatment; and finally, doesn't enable you to stop tobacco only to find yourself a slave to the habit of tablet chewing.

With Narcoti-Cure, when you are through with tobacco you are through with the remedy. One bottle cures. Send for book of prominent testimonies like the following:

HUNTINGTON, Mass., Mar. 18, 1895.

The Narcoti Chemical Co., Springfield, Mass.

Gentlemen:—I have used tobacco for over twenty-five years, chewing and smoking every day from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. stopping only for meals. On Monday, February 4, I called at your office in Springfield, and bought a bottle of the Cure which I used as directed and on the tenth day the desire for tobacco had left me and has not returned. I did not lose a meal while taking the cure. My appetite has improved and I consider Narcoti-Cure a grand thing. Very respectfully, CHAS. I. LINCOLN.

Mr. Frank H. Morton, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., late Inspector of Public Buildings for Massachusetts, says: I used tobacco for twenty-five years, and was a confirmed smoker. In just eight days' treatment with Narcoti-Cure I was through with tobacco, in fact the desire vanished like a dream. Very Respectfully, FRANK H. MORTON.

If your druggist is unable to give full particulars about Narcoti-Cure, send to us for Book of Particulars free, or send $5 for bottle by mail.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1792—John Paul Jones, the naval hero, died in Paris; born 1747. Jones was a surname assumed by this eccentric Scotchman, who was christened John Paul. He was early engaged on a slave and afterward in the merchant service. On the formation of the first naval force of the Revolutionary government in 1775 John Paul was named the "senior first lieutenant." Although the career of this wonderful man was as stirring as that of the average seaman on the whole, yet the victory in the Bon Homme Richard stands out in colossal proportions, dwarfing all else.

1887—Robert Mercer Taliaferro Hunter, once a leading southern statesman, died in Essex county, Va.; born 1809.

1892—Rose Terry Cooke, American authoress, died at Springfield, Mass.; born 1837.

1894—Leconte de Lisle, French poet, died in Paris; born 1818.

WHO PAYS THE DUTY?

Democrats (a) not t to borrowing money of foreigners to meet the expenses of the government, but do object to making them pay customs taxes to help meet those expenses.

A year ago the government was getting a revenue of $1,000,000 annually from its two cents a pound duty on burlaps. The Wilson law of 1894 removed that duty.

What then?
 "Why, imported burlaps fell in price two cents a pound" hazars a free trade theorist.

That's the free trade theory.

What are the facts?
 Walter H. Bunn, the new democratic appraiser of the port of New York has this to say:

"A notable fact, and one which requires careful examination, is that foreign manufacturers have advanced their prices of burlaps to an amount fully equal to the duty imposed by the tariff of 1890, thus depriving the consumer of the benefits expected from the reduction of duties. The government loses nearly $2,000,000 in duties, and without corresponding or any gain to the people. During the year 1894 duty was collected in amount as follows:

On bags for grain, made of burlaps.....$ 517,519
 On burlaps of flax jute, or hemp, under sixty inches.....1,352,736
 On burlaps of flax, jute, or hemp, over sixty inches.....108,842

Total.....$1,979,119
 "Should this condition of affairs continue, restoration of reasonable rates of duty, yielding as the same will, at least two millions of revenue will doubtless be urged."

So this one little experiment of Professor Wilson's has taken a clean $2,000,000 from a government that is issuing bonds to preserve its balances and has put that $2,000,000 in the pockets of foreign manufacturers. The American consumer gets no benefit. He pays the same price for his burlap that he did before. The foreign manufacturer simply disregards democratic theories and pockets the percentage that he has been in the habit of paying into the United States treasury.

SUFFER FROM LOW WATER

Low water has been hard on Fox river industries. Boatmen have a prior right to the water but regard for the interests of eight or nine local freight boats hardly justifies the crippling of every mill, electric light plant and street car line in four cities. Assistant Secretary of War Doe will arrive in Menasha Saturday to look over the grounds and mill men base great hopes on his visit. It was Secretary Doe who issued the order of May 22, suspending the first total shut-down order and allowing to mill men the use of half the flow, and it is believed he will take similar action now. Prompt measures are required to avert heavy loss. A conservative estimate places the number of employes out of work in Appleton, Kaukauna, Neenah and Menasha at 5,000. As will be remembered the order is to the effect that Lake Winnebago must be filled to the crest of the Neenah dam and only water flowing over the dam can be used for water power. The lake contains 360 square miles and in hot weather the evaporation nearly equals the inflow of Wolf river. It may be three months before the lake level is raised to the crest of the dam.

NO CAMPAIGN THUNDER

While our democratic neighbor, the Recorder, looks for "republican parades" in the treasury cases a glance at the legislative records might be timely.

The measures for the release of the ex-treasurers were not passed by a party vote. The Baetz-Kuehn bill, for instance received in the senate, the support of six democrats, while only three democrats would vote against it. The republican division of the measure was: Ayes, 10; nays 7.

Many republicans regret that the legislature took up the matter. They believed a great injustice was being wrought by the fulfillment of the circuit court judgment but they wished to see relief afforded by the courts, not by the law makers. However, they remember and democratic critics should not forget that more democratic members of the legislature voted in favor of the measure than against it, and that there were not enough republican votes in favor of it to make it a law. The self appointed defenders of purity are not in a position to get partisan advantage out of the settling of the treasury suits.

"What money does the republican party favor?" a democratic neighbor asks in hopes of diverting attention from the 16 to 1 ratio of noise to harmony in own party. The republican party has always been in favor of the best money known to the civilized world, and it is not at all likely ever to endorse any other kind, directly or indirectly.

Sherman has lived long enough and has tasted honors enough, no longer to care for the presidency. "I would not accept the office," he says, "if all the people should join together and offer it to me." All of which is simply an emphatic way of saying that he will not be a candidate in 1896.

Mr. Depew states emphatically that he has no thought of seeking the presidency. "I work for a large corporation," he says, "and we do not get our presidential timber from the corporations." This recognition of a well known fault does credit to his intelligence.

Nobody has any excuse for going to Chicago to look for bargains. Janesville prices are lower than those offered by the Windy City, and it is a near sighted policy that sends people away from home to do shopping.

MONTEREY'S MODEL MARKET.

William C. Kammer, The Proprietor, Planned The Two-Story Structure Well.

If anybody doubts the assertion that Monterey has the prettiest and most convenient meat market in the city, he need only take a few minutes' walk to the corner of Western and Center avenues and ask Mr. Kammer, the proprietor of the market, to allow an inspection. The idea given on going in the door is of entering a Chicago market. Everything about the place, the tools, etc., are of late design. The floors throughout, are of hard wood; ceilings and walls are of hard pine, finished in oil. The fixtures are of the latest design and were furnished by Mr. Kammer by a St. Louis firm.

The refrigerator is especially large and handsome with every convenience for storing meats to advantage and also for filling with ice. The front of this piece of market furniture is covered with a large French plate glass mirror. Directly back of the market is the office, telephone room, etc., and leading from this the storeroom. The market will be brilliantly lighted with incandescent lights. The basement of the building has a cement flooring and is fitted up with the latest machinery for the manufacture of sausages. The Buffalo chopper and mixer as well as the cooking boiler are of the latest designs. The sausage stuffer is a new machine lately put on the market and the only one in town. For power Mr. Kammer has put in a two horse electric motor and says that his sausage department has a capacity of 3,000 pounds a day.

The upper story of the building is finished off into a flat which the family will occupy.

A grand opening for the market is planned for Saturday. Five head of young cattle and sheep, lambs and calves, will be killed this afternoon and put in readiness. A special reduction for that day will be made in the price of all goods, and as Mr. Kammer has spent the past five years in the meat business in that locality he will undoubtedly have a large number of people to assist him in dedicating his new store. Mr. Kammer's telephone number is 119. A call by phone will insure prompt delivery of meat to any part of the city.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS NOTES.

The greatest offer yet chronicled. Those pants at $2.98 each; any and every pant in the house goes for $2.98. It seems queer, doesn't it, that we should reduce a line of pants that sold for $3.50, $4, $4.50 and $5 to $2.98 each. The reason we do it is to make room for fall and winter goods. We intend to push them away, get rid of them regardless of loss, and $2.98 will do the moving. Frank H. Baack.

NAOMI A SURPRISE IN THE 2:25 RACE

TOOK THREE STRAIGHT HEATS THIS AFTERNOON.

Lora Hill Got First Money in the Colt Race After the Judges Had Taken Driver Campbell off His Sulky and Put Up George Spear.

ONLY record-breakers can make Janesville horse-lovers open their eyes in wonder in the future, for after such racing as the crowd saw yesterday, common sport is too tame to be interesting. Nevertheless, there was a good crowd present when the flyers came out this noon. The day was not as favorable for fast time as yesterday, but it made it more comfortable for the audience. The unfinished 2:25 class was the first race called. When darkness put a stop to racing last night, Naomi had two heats and Joe Gaines one, Warren P., the winner of the first heat, having been distanced. The summary:

The 2:40 Three Year Olds.
The class for three year old trotters eligible to the 2:40 class came next on the program and had twenty-six entries, all of them good ones. The summary stood at 4:30 o'clock as follows:

Three year old trotting—purse $500.

Time—2:26; 2:24; 2:24; 2:24; 2:20; 2:20.

The 2:15 Trotting Class.
The 2:15 trotting class which came next was the event to which the horsemen had been looking with keen appreciation. J. O. Garrity had Maggie Sherman: a mare that has raced remarkably well and is a game, consistent performer. C. M. Clough had Maud Wright, a game, fast mare. George Fuller had Lazelle and Oakview Stock Farm Selina F.

Monette, the winner of the trotting Derby at the Northwestern Breeders' association and by many believed to be the fastest Chicago trotter, was also named, and George West thought that she was able to make a good, sharp contest with anything coming to the post. M. E. McHenry had the black filly, Impetuous, which proved a wonder last year as a 2-year old, and which old horsemen say will come close to Fantasy's mark of 2:08 as a 3-year old; Adelaide Simmons, the daughter of Simmons and old Adelaide, is a campaigner well known in the west.

The first heat resulted: Baron Rogers, 1; Adelaide Simmons, 2; Roslyn, 3; Maud Wright, 4; Alta, 5; Monette, 6; Maggie Sherman, 7; Louzelle, 8. Time, 2:13.

Kate Phallamont.
F. H. Colby had Kate Phallamont, a daughter of McKinney's noted station Phallamont, while Richard Curtis, the boy driver of Pamlico fame, entered Margrave, a colt, the first to win a great yearling stake offered, that given by C. W. Williams, of Independence.

At La Crosse, Maggie Sherman and Impetuous fought the battle with the others all behind. The latter got the first and second heats in 2:14 and 2:14, while Maggie forged to the front in the next three, her best mile being 2:13. Maggie also won at Oakkosh and other places, while Salena F. had several races to her credit in fast time. Kate Phallamont had distinguished herself at Minneapolis so it can be seen that the bettors had plenty to choose from.

The 2:26 Class Trotting.
The next race was the 2:26 class trotting with twenty-six entries and all of them good ones.

FINE DAY'S SPORT YESTERDAY.
The Track Record For Pacers Was Broken Eight Times.

Janesville people never saw as fine a day's racing as that afforded yesterday. Sixteen heats were trotted or paced better than 2:20; twelve heats were faster than 2:18; ten heats were faster than 2:15; eight heats were faster than 2:12; four heats were faster than 2:11; two heats were faster than 2:10; and one heat faster than 2:09. Twenty heats were trotted and paced, the average time being 2:15. The track race record for pacers, 2:12, was lowered, first to 2:11 by Pearl C.; then to 2:08 by Alrite. In the second heat Alrite again out the old mare and it was also beaten by Prairie Lillie, Frank Agan, while Fido went better than 2:12 three times. The

THE PROGRAMME FOR TOMORROW
2:18 Class Trotting, the 2:15 Pacing and 2:26 Class Trotting.

The programme for tomorrow is a good one, and includes the sensational 2:15 pacing class with Dempse, Flank, Emma Wilkes, Sir Edwin Arnold, Sphinxette, Giles Noyce and several others, there being eighteen entries in all. Several of these horses have gone in 2:12 and under, so fast time is expected. The 2:18 trotting class has twenty-four entries, while the 2:26 trotting class has twenty-six nominations, including a lot of good ones. The horses will be called at 12:30 and start promptly at 1 o'clock.

TWO BELLIGERENT NEIGHBORS NEED A JURY TO DECIDE.

Mrs. Splitstaver Accused of Inflicting Personal Injuries on Mrs. Julia Brosman—Fire Alarm Man Out of Jail and in Again—Minor Court News.

Mrs. Jennie Splitstaver and Mrs. Julia Brosman are in trouble with one another; and their troubles will be left to a jury in the municipal court. Mrs. Brosman got a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Splitstaver, charging her with assault and battery, and the warrant was placed in the hands of Officer Wallace Cochran, who produced the defendant in court this morning.

Very indignant she was, and sturdy in her denials.

It was, she explained, only after taking vast abuse, and being called all manner of hard names—names that made feathers fly from off the neighbor's chickens—that she raised her hands in admonition.

"Cease troubling me," she said "Cease troubling me; or on the word of a much-injured woman, I'll spread you all over the lot."

Mrs. Splitstaver's attorney, H. S. Sloan, waived the reading of the complaint, entered a plea of not guilty and demanded a jury trial. By consent the case was set for trial next Wednesday, L. F. Patten appearing for the state.

"Fire Alarm Mulcairns" Back in Jail.

His brother, Michael, is the complaining witness.

Ole Jacobson of Edgerton, charged with embezzling the sum of $85 from Alvora Johnson, came before Judge Phelps today and the case was continued until August 8.

Ten Miles Below Us Is Fire, Ten Miles Above Us Is Frigid Air.

Beneath the peninsula of Lower Michigan there are brines and sheets of mineral water lying in basin form, and very rich in salt, bromides, etc., and of great medical and commercial value. They have been reached by numerous wells which run down to about 3,000 feet near the center of the basin, as at Alma and Bay City. The water comes up from the bottom of these wells hot (over 90 degrees), showing a decidedly more rapid increase in temperature than in the copper mines. But the famous Comstock lode, where fabulous wealth lured the miners on, showed perhaps the most rapid increase in temperature that man has ever dared to face. It was, however, doubtless due to the action of hot waters rising from still greater depths—probably the same waters that deposited the silver ores, still at work. In the mines of this region the miners, naked as savages, reeking with perspiration, drinking pallid after pallid of ice water (twenty tons of ice, or, in another case, ninety-five pounds per man, were used each day), could labor but ten minutes at the drift (in imminent danger of being scalded by striking a stream of hot water) before being overcome by heat and reeling to a cooler place. Fainting, delirium, even death have been the effect of the reaction on coming to the surface. Verily the Cuban proverb, that a Yankee would be found to go after a sack of coffee though it were at the gates of hell, was not far from the literal truth.

However the rate of increase of temperature may vary, all indications thus agree that less than ten miles below us a red heat is attained and within twenty a white heat. Think of it! Ten miles below us it is red hot. Ten miles above we have the pitiless cold, far below zero, of interplanetary space. To what a narrow zone of delicately balanced temperature is life confined!

CHANGING THE BIBLE.

Centuries Ago It Was a Very Dangerous Undertaking.

About the middle of the twelfth century came, so far as the world now knows, the first gainsayer of the general theory concerning the Bible. Then it was that Aben Ezra, the greatest biblical scholar of the middle ages, ventured very discreetly to call attention to certain points in the Pentateuch incompatible with the belief that the whole of it had been written by Moses and handed down in its original form. His opinion was based upon the well-known texts which have turned all really eminent biblical scholars in the nineteenth century from the old view by showing the Mosiac authorship of the five books in their present form to be clearly disproved by the books themselves. But Aben Ezra had evidently no aspirations for martyrdom; he fathered the idea upon a rabbi of a previous generation, and, having veiled his statement in an enigma, added the caution, "Let him who understands hold his tongue." For about four centuries the learned world followed the prudent rabbi's advice, and then two noted scholars, one of them a Protestant, the other a Catholic, revived the idea. The first of these, Carlstadt, insisted that the authorship of the Pentateuch was unknown and unknowable; the other, Andreas Maes, expressed his opinion in terms which would not now offend the most orthodox, that the Pentateuch had been edited by Ezra, and had received in the process sundry divinely inspired words and phrases to clear the meaning. Both these innovators were dealt with promptly. Carlstadt was, for this and other troublesome ideas, suppressed with the applause of the reformed church, and the book of Maes was placed by the older church on the Index.

For Form's Sake.

Banks had just worked Rivers for a loan of ten dollars.
"I may as well make an entry of this," said Rivers, taking a small pass-book out of his pocket.
"Single entry, Rivers," said Banks.
"Single entry, remember."
"Of course," replied Rivers. "I don't suppose I'll ever have to make any entry on the credit side of the account."—Chicago Tribune.

An Annual Bath.

"How much do you charge for a single bath?" asked a shabbily dressed man of the proprietor of a bathing establishment.
"Twenty-five cents; but if you buy a dozen tickets you will only have to pay twenty cents apiece."

"Twelve tickets! How do I know that I am going to live twelve years longer?"—Texas Siftings.

An Expert Opinion.

"I wish to retain you to contest my uncle's will," said a man to a lawyer. "Do you think it can be done successfully?"
"You mean the will of the late Mr. Munn?"
"Yes."
"I am sure of it. I drew that will up myself."—Town Topics.

ECZEMA
From early childhood until I was grown my family spent a fortune trying to cure me of this disease. I visited Hot Springs and was treated by the best medical men, but was not benefited. When all things had failed I determined to try S.S.S. and in four months was entirely cured. The terrible eczema was gone, not a sign of it left. My general health built up, and I have never had any return of the disease. I have often recommended S.S.S. and have never yet known a failure to cure.

A MUMMY ADVENTURE.

Strange Experience of a French Archaeologist.

A French archaeologist, traveling among the Andes in search of knowledge and specimens, had a great desire to explore some of the caves in the sides of the precipices. They were doubtless ancient tombs and would probably yield him a treasure. He selected a favorable spot therefore, rigged a sort of chair or seat between two leather cords, and engaged two Indians to let him down from the brow of the precipice. "A descent of 300 feet made in this way," he tells us, "is extraordinarily long."

However, he reached the cave in safety, and on forcing a passage into it was rewarded by finding two skulls and a mummy—"thoroughly dry," he says, "and pretty solid." He passed a string through the eyeholes of the skulls and attached them to his belt. Then he took the mummy in his arms and signaled to the Indians to draw him up. With his heels he defended himself against the jutting rocks and in a few minutes was almost on a level with the top. The Indians knew nothing about his load. Just then the yellow skull of one of their ancestors appeared before their eyes and the idiots gave a start of surprise. The Frenchman thought they must have let go the cord.

"It was the affair of a second," he writes. "What passes in the brain of a man at such an instant is indescribable. I did not drop a yard, but I experienced all the horror of a man in rapidly falling through space. My hands let go the mummy, and while, covered with a cold sweat, I was helped over the edge of the cliff by the Indians the mummy bounded from rock to rock and landed in bits at the bottom of the chasm."

He overwhelmed the Indians with invectives, but to no purpose. Such dead men, they assured him, if disturbed in their sepulchers, had the habit of kissing the Indians, who perished infallibly under their deadly breath. One of the two declared that his own father had died in that way. The other assured the Frenchman that at the moment when the head of the mummy showed above the edge of the rocks it opened its mouth. If it had not luckily fallen into the abyss it would have cursed them forever.

WITHOUT A CENT.

How a Newly Married California Pair Will Try to Win a Tidy Sum.

W. T. Williams, Jr., and his bride of a week have left their Los Angeles home on a novel trip around the world. They left without luggage or money or food, with nothing but the clothes on their backs and a few things in their pockets, says San Francisco Examiner. Mr. Williams is a son of District Attorney W. T. Williams. Like his father, he is a big, stalwart man, capable of withstanding all sorts of hardships. Some ten days ago he surprised his friends by announcing his intention of getting married, and about a week ago turned up with a lovely bride and spent his honeymoon at the Russ House. The story now goes that he made a wager of $5,000 with his uncle that his wife had courage enough to undertake a journey about the world without either of them having any money or luggage. The condition was imposed that not more than two years should be occupied in the trip, and that the travelers must not receive any help from friends, but must earn every cent they get from the time of departure until their return. The conditions were promptly agreed to, and as no particular preparations were necessary it was decided to commence the long journey at once. The friends of the bride and groom assembled at the hotel and the crowd was increased by a number of curious spectators, so that when the last good-byes were said and the plucky little woman and her big husband took the first step out of doors they were greeted by cheers from an assemblage of several hundred people. They bowed their thanks, and trudging along were soon at the city limits and fairly started on their way. San Francisco and Seattle being visited then the road lies straight for the orient. The undertaking is actuated by a desire for sight-seeing and adventure, as well as by the $5,000 purse which is up on the venture.

ALL LOVE A WIDOW.

Let Her Be Young and Pretty and the World Is Hers.

"If I were a woman—a young woman—it would be my first ambition to be a widow," said a young man to the Atlanta Constitution man.

"I was in a big store this morning and a pretty widow came in. She wore becoming black and a high and wide Gainsborough hat. The clerks rushed over one another to wait on her.

"A little, insignificant-looking fellow with a thin, sandy mustache and light hair was the lucky one.

"She gave him a smile that fairly made his head swim.

"The other clerks were simply consumed with jealousy.

"She wanted to look at some dress stuff and consumed three-quarters of an hour of the little fellow's time.

"In the meantime a number of men came in and managed to lounge around where they could get a good view of her.

"Finally she bought one of the costliest pieces in the house and the clerk was so agitated that he made three mistakes in fixing the check.

"That was not all. She had completely demoralized the whole store. The clerks had eyes for nothing but her.

"And it was all because she was a widow and wore black.

"There's an occult fascination about widows that I never could fully understand."

Got Her Wish.

It was at dinner, and there had been chicken, of which the little daughter of the house had partaken with great freedom. "I want some more chicken," said Frances. "I think you have had as much as is good for you, dear," replied Frances' mamma. "I want more," and Frances pouted. "You can't have any more now, but here is a wishbone that you and mamma can pull. That will be fun. You pull one side and I'll pull the other, and whoever gets the longer can have her wish come true. Why, baby, you've got it! What was your wish, Frances?" "I wished for some more chicken," said Frances, promptly. She got it this time.—Christian Register.

An Applicable Term.

Mrs. Snaggs (newspaper in hand)—I've often seen the term "high contracting parties" used in the account of a wedding, but never with such appropriateness as in the account I have just read.

Mr. Snaggs—What is there particularly appropriate about it in this case?

Mrs. Snaggs—The bride was five feet eleven inches in height and the groom six feet two.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Rapid Transit.

"How long did it take you to cross the ocean?" asked Gus De Smith of a very aristocratic lady just returned from Europe.

"It was seven days on the water."

"Seven days! Why, when my brother went across it took him eight days."

"Probably your brother went over in the steerage. I was a first cabin passenger," she replied, proudly.—Texas Siftings.

Where He Forebore.

"Sometimes, John," said Brashkins' wife, "I do get a little discouraged and think you are rather hard to please."

"You don't say so!" was the astonished rejoinder.

"Yes. But I must admit there is one thing you never found fault with."

"What is that?"

"The way I look when I wear my last year's clothes."—Washington Star.

A LUCKY ACCIDENT.

Why a "Jackstone" Maker Turned His Attention to Puzzles.

As an example of how a remunerative specialty in hardware forced itself on a receptive and appreciative Yankee, the following incident will be of interest: Among manufacturers small castings are often put in revolving cylinders with pickers or stars made of cast iron, having usually six points, the extremities of which are about an inch apart. They are also familiar to toy dealers, who sell them to children as "jack-stones." The pickers, together with small castings, are put into the tumbling barrels, so that any particles of sand adhering may be removed and a better finish given the castings. A large and well-known New England concern, which, in addition to the other lines, manufactures screw wrenches largely, formerly used a peculiarly shaped malleable iron ferrule, with irregular openings at the four sides and circular openings at the two ends, weighing about an ounce. Some of these ferrules chanced to be a part of the contents in one of the tumbling barrels. When the barrel was opened the attendant noticed, what to him seemed almost incredible, that the picker with all its prongs was inside the ferrule, the openings of which were comparatively small. The observant mechanic logically concluded that as it had got in it could be got out again. The phenomenon was brought to the attention of parties who decided to apply the idea in a puzzle, and the result has been that the original manufacturers are now making the two parts under contract, in ton lots, while the first order is said to have netted a profit to the promoters of $1,700. This is known on the streets as the Trilby puzzle.

Found Her Purse in Her Horse's Hoof.

Mrs. Jacob Darue, living a few miles north of Canandaigua, N. Y., drove to that town to do some trading. She tied her horse on Main street and made several purchases, but found that her pocketbook containing $50 was missing. After searching through the carriage and the stores she advertised in the evening paper, offering a reward. On her way home she noticed that the horse was somewhat lame and the lameness increased until she alighted from the vehicle and made an examination. The animal lifted his foot at her bidding, and Mrs. Darue was surprised when she found, firmly imbedded in the hollow of the hoof, the missing purse with all the money. Mrs. Darue believes that in alighting from the carriage the purse fell from her dress and under the horse's foot.

Chicago Canal Comes Next.

The Kiel, the Harlem and the "Soo" canals have all been opened recently. Dear old Chicago is next in line with her $20,000,000 drainage canal, on which upward of $10,000,000 has already been expended. This truly great undertaking will probably be completed within a couple of years and is expected to carry the sewage of the windy city into the Mississippi and out to the sea in such a manner as to solve the city's sewage problem without detriment to itself or to the population of the Illinois or Mississippi valleys. The canal will be 165 feet wide and 18 feet deep, and it is said that Chicago will invite the garbage contractors of all creation to attend the opening festivities and sail through the canal in their crack scows. It makes one's head swim with pride to think what a gorgeous figure our Colonel Geo. Beautiful Waring will cut on that grand occasion. And think how Chicago will blow when, for the first time, the sewage is turned on and proves to be of sufficient volume to raise the Mississippi a foot at St. Louis!
